The Home Depot Foundation Awards Generous Grant to People Working Cooperatively for Veteran Services

Funding Supports Critical Home Repairs and Modifications for Local Veterans and Their Families

Cincinnati, OH (June 2, 2017) – People Working Cooperatively (PWC) is pleased to announce the Home Depot Foundation has awarded a $200,000 grant in support of PWC’s Ramp It Up for Veterans campaign.

“The Home Depot Foundation has been a generous supporter and partner of People Working Cooperatively for many years, and we’re incredibly grateful for their continued involvement,” said Chris Owens, Vice President of Development at PWC. “This grant will be used to support critical home repairs and modifications for local veterans, who are very much in need of our help to stay safely in their homes. We thank The Home Depot Foundation, as well as their tireless Team Depot volunteers who will assist us throughout the year in making these repairs for our local veterans in need.”

Dollars raised through People Working Cooperatively’s Ramp It Up for Veterans campaign will offer essential home renovations and repairs to ensure that low-income veterans in the greater Cincinnati community may continue to live safely and comfortably in their homes. The generous grant from the Home Depot Foundation will allow People Working Cooperatively to provide repairs and renovations for a number of veterans’ households in the Greater Cincinnati area throughout 2017.
