People Working Cooperatively (PWC) and Colerain Team Up for Colerain Township “Community Give Back Day”

Cincinnati, OH (DATE) - People Working Cooperatively is seeking volunteers to provide home repairs for the Colerain Township “Community Give Back Day” on Saturday, Sept. 9. PWC is looking to recruit 40-50 volunteers with some repairs skills to assist 10 Colerain Township homeowners.

The Colerain “Community Give Back Day” is an innovative way for individuals and local companies to give back to their neighbors in need. “Our team is excited to partner with the Colerain community to complete these repairs, but we need volunteers to make it all possible,” said Aaron Grant, Volunteer Program Manager at People Working Cooperatively. The Colerain Township “Community Give Back Day” is an opportunity for volunteers to come together to make a big impact in the Colerain community. If you have the time and the skills, please consider joining us, and spending Saturday, Sept. 9 assisting these neighbors in need.”

Volunteer crews will provide basic home maintenance and repairs for low-income, elderly homeowners with disabilities. Projects could include installing handrails and grab bars, repairing outdoor steps and walkways, and major yard cleanup.

This event has been made possible through partnerships with the Colerain Township, the Colerain Chamber of Commerce, The Colerain Township Police Department, and Colerain Township Fire & EMS. Registration for volunteers is now open online at secure.pwchomerepairs.org/volunteercolerain. For more information, contact Ron Henlein, Director, Corporate/Community Partnerships at (513) 351-7921.

About People Working Cooperatively
